BITS OF INFORMATION.

NICOTINE is so named from Jean Nicot, lord of Villemain, who purchased some tobacco at Lisbon in 1560, introduced it into France, and had the honor of fixing his name on the plant. Our word tobacco is from the Indian tabaco, the tube used by the Indians for inhaling the smoke, which by them is called petuni or cohiba.

The origin of the phrase, "Before you could say Jack Robin-on," is thus explained: Grose says it originated from a very voluble gentleman of that appellation, who would call on his neighbors and be gone before his name could be announced. But the following lines are elsewhere given as the original phrase:

A warke it ys as easie to be doone,
As tys to saye Jack Robin-on!

BRAZILIAN nuts are the fruit of the Bartholletia coccinea. The tree grows to the height of 12 feet. The trunk seldom exceeds three feet in thickness, and the leaves are nearly thirty inches long. The fruit, falling from such a great height, is hard and heavy enough to severely hurt any one coming within its range. To avoid this danger the natives of Brazil, during the nut harvest, cover their heads and shoulders with a strong wooden buckler.

The epithet "turn-coat" had its origin in Saxony. The dominions of the Duke of Saxony being between France and Savoy, one of the early Dukes hit upon the device of a coat of blue on one side and white on the other. When he wished to be thought in the Spanish interest, he wore the blue outside; when he wished to be considered on the side of the French, he wore the white on the outside. From this he was called "Emannel Turncoat."

The distribution of nationalities in our army during the great rebellion was as follows:

	Per cent.
Native American.....	1,523,300 75.48
British American.....	53,500 2.65
English.....	45,500 2.26
Irish.....	144,200 7.14
German.....	176,800 8.76
Other foreigners.....	48,400 2.38
Foreigners, nativity unknown....	26,500 1.33
Total.....	2,018,200 100.00

ACCORDING to the late census the following States, in the order given, are the greatest wheat-producing States in the Union, counted by millions of bushels: Illinois, 51,000,000; Indiana, 47,000,000; Ohio, 46,000,000; Michigan, 36,000,000; Minnesota, 35,000,000; Iowa, 31,000,000; California, 30,000,000; Missouri, 25,000,000; Wisconsin, 25,000,000; Pennsylvania, 19,000,000. The total crop of the United States is 459,000,000 bushels, grown on about 35,000,000 acres of land, making an average of nearly thirteen bushels to the acre.

THERE are three nations whose population is so far in advance of that of all the others in the world that even the United States does not come, with its 50,000,000, within 36,000,000 of the lowest of them. They are as follows:

Chinese Empire.....	433,500,000
British India.....	190,663,623
Russian Empire.....	86,955,347

The population of the Chinese Empire is estimated, that of British India is according to the census of 1871, and that of the Russian Empire according to the reports of 1876.

WILLIAM WINANS, the Baltimore Crecus, who lives in London, has a yacht that cost a fortune, but is mortally afraid of the sea; has English, American and Russian race-horses, and rides an old cob which frightens him by backing its ears; pays seven thousand pounds a year for the most expensive deer park in Scotland, and can not sit in a room with a gun; has Patti and Albani to sing at his drawing-room concerts, and does not know "Rule Britannia" from "Yankee Doodle."—Waifs.

Ye Olden Time.

The old, legitimate, delightful idea of an inn is becoming obsolete; the rapidity with which distance is consumed obviates the needs that so long existed of by-way retreats and halting places. The modern habit of travel has infinitely lessened the romantic probabilities of a journey; the rural ale-house and picturesque hostel now exist chiefly in the domain of memory; crowds, haste and ostentation triumph over privacy and rational enjoyment. Old Walton would discover now but few of the secluded inns that refreshed him on his piscatorial excursions; the ancient ballads on the wall have given place to French paper; the scent of lavender no longer makes the linen fragrant; instead of the crackle of the open wood fire we have the dingy coal smoke, and blinds usurp the place of snowy curtains.

Few hosts can find time to gossip; the excitement of a stage-coach arrival is no more, and a poet might travel a thousand leagues without meeting a romantic "maid of the inn," such as Southey has immortalized. Jollity, freedom and comfort are no longer inevitably associated with the name; the world has become a vast procession that seems to linger on its route. Thanks, however, to the conservative spell of literature, we can yet appreciate, in imagination, at least, the good, old English inn. Indeed, it is quite impossible to imagine what British authors would have done without the solace and inspiration of the inn. Addison fled thither from domestic annoyance; Dryden's chair at "Will's" was an oracular throne; when hard pressed Steele and Savage sought refuge in a tavern and wrote pamphlets; Sterne opens his Sentimental Journey with his landlord; Shenstone confessed he found "life's warmest welcome at an inn."

The most characteristic scenes of Scott and Dickens occur on this vantage-ground, where the strict unities of life are temporarily discarded, and its zest miraculously quickened by fatigue, hunger, singular mood of adventure and pastime, nowhere else in civilized lands so readily induced.

HEALTH INTELLIGENCE.

[From Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.]

AMONG forty-seven thousand dogs taken to the pound of New York City during five years past, only one was found to have hydrophobia.

A FOND mother wrote to an enthusiastic young lady who had established a physiology class for girl: "Please do not teach my Mary Ann any more about her insides. It will never do her no good, and it's rude."

If we were provided with a sense of smell as acute as many animals possess, it would probably be a great aid in diagnosis, for there are some diseases that are accompanied by a definite odor, and possibly all are, to some extent.

PROFESSOR LEWIS, of Stevens Institute, has made four hundred analyses of food and drugs, and found that in all cases of adulteration, excepting one, no poisonous material was employed. In one specimen of pickles copper was found.

DR. HEWLITT, of Lake Superior, believes that diphtheria was brought into his family by the house cat. It died of some affection of the throat and glands of the neck, and violent diphtheria then attacked two of his children and caused their death.

NUTMEGS should be used sparingly, for they possess a narcotic property that constitutes them a drug. A lady who was induced to take nutmeg tea by her nurse was made drowsy by it and finally put into a profound stupor resembling that of opium.

The next time Blaine goes before an investigating committee he should bear constantly in mind that discreet old maxim, "Think twice before you speak once." Perhaps it would be better if Mr. Blaine would think three times.

The Kentucky Legislature had under advisement a bill for the protection of boarding house keepers. One touch of hash makes the whole world kin. Possibly it wouldn't be a bad idea to draft another bill protecting the boarders.

Abolish the Internal Revenue System.

The following is from the speech of the Hon. S. S. Cox on the tariff: I favor, openly and boldly, the abolition of the cumbersome, corrupt, and spying system of the internal revenue. It is not necessary to say that its officers are corrupt; it is the system. Its officers pursue the voter into his cigar and tobacco shops and into stills, breweries, and factories with threats, and it has its army of 5,000. Worse than the janizary or the mameluke, it undertakes by its occult machinery to intimidate and defraud. Away with it! Every speck of it on our body politic is a cancer. I am willing to meet this issue at the polls, and woe be to that member who upholds it to overfill our Treasury, that the greedy may riot in the people's hard-earned means collected by its officials. Indeed, it seems a part of the plan adopted by the dominant party to allow no reduction. The surplus is to be piled up year after year, and this is the issue we are to meet.

Land League Proclamation.

LONDON, May 7.—The following manifesto of the League was adopted this afternoon at a hurriedly summoned meeting at the Westminster Palace Hotel:

To the people of Ireland: On the eve of what seemed a bright future for our country, that evil destiny which has apparently pursued us for centuries has struck at our hopes another blow, which can not be exaggerated in its disastrous consequences. In this hour of sorrowful gloom we venture to give expression to our profoundest sympathy with the people of Ireland in the calamity that has befallen our cause through this horrible deed, and with those who determined, at the last hour, that a policy of conciliation should supplant that of terrorism and national distrust. We earnestly hope that the attitude and action of the Irish people will show to the world that an assassination such as has startled us almost to abandonment of hope of our country's future, is deeply and religiously abhorrent to their every feeling and instinct. We appeal to you to show by every manner of expression that, amidst the universal feeling of terror which the assassination has excited, no people feel so deep a detestation of its atrocity, or so deep a sympathy with those whose hearts must be seared by it, as the Nation upon whose prosperity and reviving hopes it may entail consequences more ruinous than those that have fallen to the lot of unhappy Ireland during the present generation. We feel that no act has ever been perpetrated in our country during the exciting struggles of the past fifty years that has so stained the name of hospitable Ireland as this cowardly and unprovoked assassination of a friendly stranger, and that until the murderers of Cavendish and Burke are brought to justice that stain will sully our country's name.

CHARLES S. PARNELL.
JOHN DILLON.
MICHAEL DAVITT.

All Irish members heard from concur in this declaration.

Orders for the immediate printing and posting of the manifesto throughout Ireland have been given.

In a rough and tumble fight between John Doherty, Dennis Flaherty and Tom Manning, at Oxford, O., Saturday, the latter was brutally beaten by the two former, and there is little hope of recovery. His assailants escaped.

The Franklin Life Insurance Company, of Indianapolis, passed into the hands of Judge James S. Frazer, of Warsaw as Receiver. Threatened litigation by dissatisfied policy-holders has made an assignment necessary, and the course adopted is for the protection of the policy-holders, who at present number between three and four hundred.

The Smith Sunday Law was strictly enforced in Cincinnati. But two saloons were opened, and in those cases the proprietors were promptly arrested. Temperance drinks were sold at the hill-top resorts and in billiard rooms. There were large sales of pretzels at the Orphan's picnic, a glass of beer being given away in each case. Eleven arrests were made during the day, six of which were for drunkenness.

FOUND DEAD.

The Bodies of Lieutenant DeLong and His Comrades of the Jeannette Recovered in the Frozen North.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Secretary Chandler received to-night the following telegram from Engineer Melville:

"IRKUTSK, May 5, 1882.
"SECRETARY OF THE NAVY, Washington, D. C., U. S. A.: At Lena Delta, March 24, 1882, found DeLong and party dead. Found all the papers and books. Will continue the search for Chipp. MELVILLE."

IRKUTSK, May 5.—Morning—The following dispatches have just been received here by special courier from Jackson, Herald correspondent, on his way north to the mouth of the Lena:

"KENURACH, in the District of Verch-naransk, April, 10, 1882.—A rumor is current among the Tungus natives that five men have been found by the Tungus at the mouth of the Lena. They describe one as wearing a gold-faced uniform. Noros tells me captain DeLong wore his uniform coat under his ulster at the time of the landing. I give this as a rumor, but it is remarkable that news spreads among the Tungus with great speed."

"FORTY MILES BEYOND KENURACH, April 12, 1882."

"A Cossack estafette (special express) has just arrived here with dispatches breaking news that the bodies of captain DeLong and ten men have been found, all in one spot. He takes sealed dispatches, which you will receive with this."

PILES! PILES! PILES!

A Sure Cure Found at Last—No One Need Suffer!

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated piles has been discovered by Dr. William, (an Indian remedy,) called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of twenty-five or thirty years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions instruments and electrics do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Pile Ointment; I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave me such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment.

For sale by George T. Wood or mailed on receipt of price, $1.

SKIN DISEASE.

F. Drake, Esq., Cleveland, O., suffered beyond all description from a skin disease which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. The most careful doctoring failed to help him, and after all had failed he used Dr. Frazier's Magic Ointment and was cured by a few applications.

The first and positive cure for skin diseases ever discovered.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

May Weather.

The following is from Vennor's Weather
Bulletin for the present month:

April and May are the keys of the year.

A windy March and a rainy April make a good May.

Shear your sheep in May, and shear them all away.

A swarm of bees in May is worth a load of hay, but a swarm in July is not worth a fly.

A May flood never did good.

A cold and windy May makes a barn full and findy.

Look at your corn in May and you will come weeping away; look at the same in June and you'll come home in another tune.

A cold May enriches no one.

A hot May makes a fat churchyard.

A windy May makes a fair year.

Water in May is bread all the year.

Between April and May, if there be rain, it is worth more than oxen or grain.

A dusty March, a snowy February, a moist April and a dry May presage a good year.

May formerly was sacred to Apollo; the ancients little thought of what would follow—that May, descending as time onward rolls, should ever by Fate be made the fete of 'Poles.'

quality. It ranks everywhere it is known as the best.

COL. W. H. BUFFINGTON, of Covington,

the former place, last Saturday night, of a fine gold watch and his pocketbook. The articles were recovered, but the pocketbook was short fifteen dollars.

The following has been handed to us
for publication:

We the undersigned, Supervisors of tax of examination of the Assessor's books of said county, say for Mr. Thomas P. Anderson, the Assessor, that he has done his work well, that his books are made out in a plain legible hand, and that, considering everything, he has made as fair a valuation and equalization over the whole county as could well be made. Signed this May 6th, 1882.

efficient measures for checking the spread of smallpox which, it is declared is doing injury to the business of the city. The efficient and a resolution adopted asking the appointment of Dr. T. C. Minor as Health officer, who made a reputation during the yellow fever scare and that he be given complete control of the Sanitary force.

Bargains in Clothing.

James Wilde, jr., & Co., the well known Cincinnati clothiers have elsewhere an advertisement that those who wish to save money in the purchase of spring clothing, will do well to read. They offer prices in boys' and men's clothing that cannot be equaled. The firm is a perfectly reliable one, honorable in their dealings with the public, and will do exactly what they advertise. Cut the advertisement out and preserve it.

The State of Lewis at Large.

VANCEBURG KY., May 8, 1882—Recently I passed over the Eastern boundary of this forty mile county into the district of Kenton Furnace, which last year engaged a force of hundreds of hands. To-day the twenty-five vacant dwellings the idle forge, empty shops and piles of rusty ore denote ruin and desolation. It was painful to ride over the hills and see the abandoned ore, thousands of cords of wood to be conveyed into charcoals, wasting and the woodman's hut bearing marks of former occupation. The secret of this supersession of an important industry is attributed to mismanagement and the fact that a mine of the rich, black band ore is opened on the river above Quincy, that brings ready money on the river bank, and the demand for it is in excess of the supply. The new discovery is a bonanza for the State of Lewis. The supply is supposed to be abundant.

Sunday night, the Rev. Mr. Wright, of the M. E. Church, South, discoursed on the excesses of holiness as recently demonstrated here. He presented dignified and logical reasons that perfection is not of this life, and that the victims of this belief dwell largely on the pronoun I instead of Him who came to save the lost. True holiness is humility.

The reverend gentleman is a profound thinker, a fluent speaker and commands general respect for his conservative utterances on all subjects. Aside from this Divine's opinions, public sentiment is adverse to this extreme profession of sanctified confessions. To use an expression of one who has watched and followed the Holiness Band with earnest devotion with the hope of attaining the acme of Divine perfection. It was with them:

Christ crucified,
Me sanctified,
Brethren and Sisters glorified,
On this we divide.

Forestry Statistics.

In some cantons of Switzerland there is a law forbidding the destruction of a tree without planting another to take its place. This law is an outgrowth of necessity. It has been scientifically demonstrated that the increase in violent storms, inundations, and landslides in Switzerland, scattering death and destruction on all sides, is due to deforesting the mountains.

Gradually the timber has disappeared until little remains, except on the high slopes of the mountains, and that little is of inferior size and quality. Unless the process is arrested, the mountains of Switzerland will present as bald an appearance as those Alps which divide France from Italy; and nothing more desolate and dreary outside the steppes of Asia, or the desert of Africa, presents itself to the eye of the traveler.

Switzerland, compared with the area of the United States, is but a speck, but if we have more acreage and wider stretches of timbered lands, we are also consuming them more rapidly.

A glance at the series of forestry bulletins issued by the Census Bureau is sufficient to alarm one for the future timber supplies of the United States. The maps show the original extent of the forest lands and the area denuded by the remorseless ax of the lumberman. Take Michigan, the great pine State of the Northwest. More than three-fourths of the land, including the upper peninsula, has been stripped of its timber. A few statistics will show that the amount of white pine remaining on the Saginaw and its tributaries, and in the basins of streams flowing into Lakes Huron and Michigan, is estimated at 29,000,000,000 feet, board measure. In the single year ending with May, 1880, 4,068,773,000 feet were cut. At this rate the supply will be exhausted in less than eight years. Of the same timber on the peninsula there were 6,000,000,000 remaining, in round numbers, and of this 328,438,000 feet cut in one year. From Menominee and Delta counties the merchantable pine, says the Bulletin, has been almost entirely removed. The destruction of the hard woods has been on the same exhaustive scale.

The maps show that along every navigable stream, and on the rivers of the lakes, the timber has all been cut away, and each year the lumbermen have to go back further into the interior for their supplies, and the cost is increased by the greater difficulty in getting the timber to market.

Wisconsin has only 6,100,000,000 feet remaining of white pine. In the census year 540,997,000 feet were cut. How long before Wisconsin will cease to furnish a supply of this valuable timber? She has still 3,840,000 acres of hard wood forest; but the ravages in that are hardly less than in the pine lands.

Minnesota still has 17,200,000,000 feet of pine, and some 6,775,000,000 of mixed pine and hard wood to boast of, but the cut during the census year was 115,777,000 feet, and each year as the supplies in Wisconsin and Michigan dwindle the demand upon Minnesota's resources will increase.

In short, unless something is done to encourage the replanting of forests of pine and hard wood it will not be twenty years before there will be a timber famine in the land, with prices so extravagant as to put an end to building in wood and to the use of wood as fuel.

We need not dwell on the effect of deforestation on climate and temperature. This has been repeatedly done in these columns. It is the universal testimony of mankind that it results in diminution of rainfall, and the dwindling away of creeks and navigable streams, and an increase in sudden and devastating storms and violent hurricanes. We have the history of the old world before us, and if we do not profit by the warning example we deserve to be punished for such a crime against nature.—Cincinnati Commercial.

THE St. Louis Miller, the Scientific American, and the Massachusetts Eclectic Medical Journal endorse onions as an excellent food for colds settled upon the lungs. An extract can be made by boiling down the juice of onions to a syrup, that can be taken as a medicine, but eating freely of well-cooked onions is a good way to obtain their medical effect.

BATCHELDER'S

Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensible to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

THE CHEAPEST AND THE BEST.

THE ONLY PRACTICAL CASE.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case, without rehandling.

For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, adding, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

PRICES IN CHICAGO.

Shipper's No. 1, 30 doz. Case with Fillers complete 65 Cents.
Farmer's No. 1, 18 doz. Case with Fillers complete 55 Cents.
Cardboard Fillers for refilling 20 Cents.
15 per cent. discount on lots of 100 cases.

Batchelder's Egg Tester, 1 string 6 doz. at once, saves to buyers many times its cost each season. Price $3.00.

The 18 dozen case made especially for Farmers' use, sent to any address by express, with out nailing, with full directions for setting up, on receipt of 50 cents. Every Farmer and consumer should have one of these cases, it will save its cost every month. Agents wanted in every county. Address,
